#133

Work Life Balance 😯

Many people work to build a life…
but slowly, work itself becomes their entire life.

Earning money is important,
but remember —
your children won’t remember your salary,
they will remember your time…
Your parents won’t care about your position,
they just want your presence…
And your mind doesn’t only need success,
it also needs a moment of peace.

Don’t work so much that…
you forget how to laugh,
relationships start fading away,
and life becomes nothing more than the “next target.”

Balance is very important in life.
Work hard, work with dedication…
but make time for family,
take care of your health,
and don’t forget to truly live your life.

Because in the end…
people won’t remember how busy you were,
they will remember how present you were with them.